Committee helps beautify Emerson

The Social Action Committee of Congregation B'nai Israel in Emerson and volunteers from Emerson gathered recently to clean up trash and recyclables in an Earth Day effort as part of the 'Clean Up and Beautify Emerson' project that focused on Emerson Woods, Centennial Park, and other Emerson areas. Tom Browne of the Emerson Environmental Committee joined the temple's group, led by Arlene and Don Fultonberg and Jill Blum. The group's efforts received support from a grant from Bergen County that covered the costs of tools and supplies.
